Salukis Play in NCAA

by Tom Simons

Sports Information Director

SIU basketball reached a new level 1976-77 as the Salukis' coached by Paul Lambert gained the NCAA Division I championship tournament for the first time ever.

The Salukis earned the berth in the Midwest Regional after a 21-6 regular season that saw them tie New Mexico State for the Missouri Valley Conference championship, then draw a bye to the Valley finals (because of two regular-season wins over the Aggies), where they defeated West Texas State, 82-69, for the NCAA bid.

SIU opened NCAA play March 12, at the Omaha Civic Auditorium against the University of Arizona where 35 points from senior guard Mike Glenn and a host from the lane with three seconds left by sophomore forward Gary Wilson were enough to ensure an 81-77 victory over the Wildcats. From there, it was on to The Myriad in Oklahoma City and a March 17 date with ACC runnerup Wake Forest. The Saluki-Deacon battle was a wide-open, back-and-forth affair that saw five ties and 17 lead changes in the second half alone. However, the Deacons broke the final tie to take a 71-69 lead with 4:18 left, then, after the Salukis couldn't score, went into the "four corners" offense. Wake Forest upped its lead to 75-69 and went on to win, 86-81, hitting nine of 10 free throws and four layups in the last 4:18.

Despite the disappointing ending, the season was an extremely satisfying one for Lambert, the Salukis and their faithful — a total of nearly 2,000 fans followed them to Wichita, Omaha and Oklahoma City the last three weeks of the season.

"I told the kids after the game that no matter how bitter it was to lose to Wake Forest that they had absolutely nothing to be ashamed of," Lambert said in the week after the season-ending loss. "I told them that only eight teams in the whole country made it farther than we did, and seven of them were going to end their seasons the same way we did — only one is allowed to grab the golden ring. I've never been prouder of a group of players."

The Salukis entered the 1976-77 season as a slight Valley underdog to defending champion Wichita State. then got off to a rocky conference start and were 3-3 after a 91-90 double-overtime loss at Wichita (then 5-2). However, Southern came back to win five of its last six conference games (nine of its last 10 overall in regular season) to hand Lambert his first 20-win year.

SIU entered the regular-season finale against Drake needing a homecourt win over the Bulldogs to earn the title-tie with New Mexico State. They got it in convincing fashion, 80-61, on regional television.

The next week at Wichita, the Salukis needed the win over West Texas (ineligible for NCAA play because of probation) to give the Valley its most-attractive entry possible.

Outgoing senior Mike Glenn (a consensus all-MVC pick the second-straight year and honorable mention All-American choice by both AP and UPI went out as a true champion.

Alumnus Changes

The Alumnus has undergone a facelift.

Beginning with this issue, the Alumnus has been changed from a magazine to a tabloid newspaper to give a broader coverage of SIU news, features, campus activities and alumni news.

It will continue to be published (bi-monthly) six issues a year.

The news will be more current because a later printing deadline will be possible with the newspaper.

In March and September, the Alumnus will be sent to all SIU alumni. This replaces the four Alumni News which was discontinued in February 1976.

In changing the format, the Alumni Association will be able to save on the rising paper costs and postage and printing costs. In essence, this also will help avoid an increase in membership costs.

If you have any ideas for future stories — or ways to improve the Alumnus, please send them to the editor. All suggestions or criticisms will be appreciated.

If you are not currently a member, join now by using the application blank in this issue.

President Warren W. Brandt meets with some of the SIU alumni in Taiwan. Taiwan was one of the stops on Brandt's trip. He also visited Taipei, Japan, Korea, Hong Kong and Thailand. Brandt was awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree

Jan. 19, at the Hanyang University in Seoul, Korea. In 1971, an SIU volunteer student organization collected more than 4,000 books for Hanyang's library and classrooms. SIU and the Korean school have also engaged in informal exchanges of academic journals and information through individual departments and faculty members. The Brandts were told by many of the alumni that they thought of "Carbondale as their second home."

University Foundation Gets Nearly One Million

Nearly one million dollars in donations has been given to the Southern Illinois University-Carbondale's Living Endowment Program in the first six months of this fiscal year.

As of Dec. 31, 1976, $830,230 in donations was received by the Foundation, a corporate unit which channels funds to various University departments and programs. Of that amount, $246,578 was in cash and another $583,651 was in gifts of kind such as laboratory equipment, books, art prints or helicopters, J.C. Garavalia, development director, said.

Of the current total, about $116,300 came from 1,517 individuals through the annual giving campaign. About 835 alumni contributed $22,000, Garavalia said.

Of the donations received this year, $101,511 was distributed to specific University departments. And $583,651 worth of gifts in kind were dispersed throughout the University. Student loans, awards and scholarship funds received $98,450; various other programs and activities received $39,406, unrestricted funds totaled $7,210.

Annual Telefunds are currently being conducted in populated Alumni areas to raise additional funds.

Three Named to SIU Board

Gov. James Thompson has appointed a former SIU student — and the current national president of PTA to the SIU Board of Trustees. He also reappointed two current members.

The new member, Carol Kimmel ex '37 of Rock Island, will replace Willis Moore of Carbondale. Harris Rowe of Jacksonville and William Norwood '59 of Elk Grove were reappointed to six-year terms.

Mrs. Kimmel, a Republican, is a native of Dongola. She attended summer school at SIU-C in 1935, 1936 and 1937, but graduated from Bethel Women's College in Hopkinsville, Ky., with a degree in music.

Currently, she is the national president of PTA, taking office in 1975. In the past, Mrs. Kimmel has been active in 25 boards, conferences and commissions dealing with education. She was a consultant to Model Cities Program in Rock Island. She also was on committees that helped draft Illinois' Master Plan for Higher Education.

At present, she is a member of the National Task Force on Alcoholism Prevention, the National Institute on Alcohol and Alcohol Abuse, the National Science Foundation's subcommittees in School Problems Commission Study in Educational Governance and the Joint Sponsorship of the Education Commission of the States.

From 1956 until 1963, Mrs. Kimmel was a lobbyist for the Illinois PTA. She was state president in 1966. She promoted Illinois' higher education bond issue in 1960 and received a

Carol Kimmel

University of Illinois commendation for "outstanding service rendered in public education" for her efforts.

Rowe, 53, an insurance company executive, has been a member of the board of trustees since 1971. Rowe, a Republican, has been secretary of the board since 1973. In 1975, he was elected vice-chairman and re-elected in 1976.

Norwood, 41, formerly of Centralia, is the third black to serve on the board of trustees. He is a pilot with United Airlines.

At SIU, Norwood was the first black to quarterback a Saluki football team from 1956 until 1958 under Coach Al Kawal. He was named honorable All-American by a Peoria newspaper in 1958. In 1965, Norwood became the first black to be a pilot with United Airlines and the second black to fly with a major airline.

Harris Rowe

Former Gov. Daniel Walker first chose Norwood, a Democrat, in 1974, to fill the term of W. Victor Rouse of Evanston. Norwood is married to the former Molly Cross '61.

Board officers elected Feb. 10 include: Rowe as chairman; Ivan A. Elliott, Jr., of Carmi, vice-chairman; and Margaret Blackshere of Madison, secretary. Other trustees are: Wayne Heberer of Belleville, A.D. Van Meter, Jr., of Springfield, and Robert N. Seely of Carbondale and Muhammad Abdel Aziz of Edwardsville, both student members.

William Norwood

All three trustees were selected from a list submitted annually by the SIU Alumni Association to the governor. Since 1970, the association has compiled a list of selected names which is sent to the governor for consideration of possible trustee appointments.

Alumni are urged to send in any names of Illinois citizens who they feel would be qualified for such appointments. Your suggestions need not be limited to an SIU alumni. Please provide as much background material as possible with the names you offer. Send suggestions to the SIU Alumni Association, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Illinois 62901.

Kenney Heads Conservation

David T. Kenney, '47, MSED '48, was appointed director of the Illinois Dept. of Conservation Feb. 2 by Gov. James Thompson.

The 54-year-old Kenney, a Carbondale native, has been on the SIU-C faculty since 1951, shortly after he completed his Ph.D. degree from the University of Illinois.

Kenney, a political science professor at SIU-C, had been director of the Public Affairs Research Bureau, been assistant dean of the graduate school from 1951 to 1964 and acting dean of the graduate school from 1964-65.

Although this is Kenney's first full-time government post, he is no newcomer to the workings of state government. He is the author of a widely used textbook titled, "Basic Illinois Government: A Systematic Explanation." He was a delegate to the 1970 Illinois Constitutional Convention. He is a member of the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission and the Governor's Commission on Mental Retardation.

Kenney has been active in the SIU-C Alumni Association. He served as president of the Jackson County Club from 1965 to 1966 and was the vice-president of the Alumni Association from 1963 until 1965. He has been a member of the Alumni Legislative Council from 1955 until the present.

He was named "Most Popular Faculty Member" in 1960 by SIU-C students. In 1958, Kenney was the president of the Carbondale Lions Club.

His outdoor interests range from fishing to horseback riding. He is a member of such groups as the Crab Orchard Sportsman's Association and the American Brittany Club.

Kenney said Illinois' current budgetary problems preclude any "major projects by the Dept. of Conservation for one to two years."

"It's too early for me to have any plans so far as changes in the department or departmental programs are concerned," Kenney said.

He said the multiple-use policies instituted on many public-owned lands throughout Illinois under former Gov. Daniel Walker "provide for more equitable land use in terms of meeting everyone's recreational needs."

Rouhandeh Gets Alumni Grant

Haasan Rouhandeh recently was awarded a $5,000 research grant by the SIU Alumni Association to study bovine leukemia.

This is the third research project funded by the Association from monies designated for research donated to Alumni Telefunds and the Living Endowment Fund.

The project will be conducted by the SIU Cooperative Research in Molecular and Cancer Virology. Rouhandeh is the director of the project.

Rouhandeh, through his research, hopes to contribute a better understanding of the molecular biology of the bovine leukemia virus (BLV) which appears to be a prototype of a new family of leukemia viruses.

The SIU study will concentrate on the existence of a viral agent in milk, testing Southern Illinois cattle.

It's Tough Getting a Good Job, but Career Center Sure Helps!

Peggy Cochran '76 wants a job after she graduates next month from Southern Illinois University.

She doesn't want just any job, but one that pays well. And she wants to use the talents of her master's degree in business administration.

Is this too much for a 20-year-old to expect? Miss Cochran, a native of Carbondale, doesn't think so.

Her attitude stems from some special help she is getting from the SIU Career Planning and Placement Center (CPPC).

Through the CPPC, Miss Cochran has learned different interviewing techniques, how to write a resume, where to look for jobs that aren't advertised and other job search strategies.

Before she learned the specifics of job searching, Miss Cochran took two classes sponsored by the CPPC. They helped organize her career goals. This experience added to some career counseling helped ready her for job searching, she said.

Of course Miss Cochran is not alone in her search for the right job. More and more students are turning to the center each year as the job market gets tighter, CPPC Director Harvey Ideus said.

On the average, about 3,400 new students register each year at the CPPC for help. During the 1975-76 school year, the center contacted 9,400 students, Ideus said.

He said a contact might just be a phone call or a seminar concerning what is available at CPPC.

"With about 4,000 to 5,000 students graduating every year from here, the job competition is tough; therefore, a student knows he needs every trick or every experience to get that job he wants," Ideus said.

Peggy Cochran waits for job interview.

In order to help students, the CPPC is divided into four units. The units are: career counseling, career placement, testing and cooperative education. Altogether, 23 programs are offered through the four units.

Career counseling helps the student to ask 'Who am I? What do I want? How am I going to get it? What am I going to do when I do get it? and where am I going then?'

The counseling unit, headed by Diane Tinsley, assists students in answering questions by assessing their interests, attitudes, achievements and values related to academic, vocational and professional choices.

During 1975-76, about 1,123 clients were seen for a total of 2,579 sessions. Each session averaged from 50 to 60 minutes, Ideus said.

The second unit, career placement, is a mini-employment agency, which charges no fee, finds students and alumni jobs after graduation.

Ideus said, "It teaches the student how to get out of college gracefully. A student who leaves here from this University without a job has not learned how to use the campus resources."

Included in the placement unit are the placement services for the alumni and the resume and records services. This program provides a place for receiving, filing and mailing resumes and credentials to prospective employers.

More than 1,617 alumni updated placement papers during 1975-76. In addition, 23,681 individual sets of credentials were mailed in 1976.

Alumni can send placement papers, resumes, and letters of references to the placement center. Then the placement center sends them out to prospective employers with a cover with the SIU emblem.

The handling of an SIU alumnus' credentials has always impressed Remo Castrale '55, M.S. '57, Ph.D. '72, superintendent of the Johnston City School Unit District 1.

Castrale said he always "takes a second look," at teachers' credentials if they are packaged by the SIU Placement Center.

"I am very proud of the professional quality of the personnel the CPPC sends me when I have an opening in the Johnston City School system," Castrale said.

The placement unit also arranges interviews with prospective employers. During 1975-76, 295 recruiters from 136 companies held 2,889 interviews with 1,136 students, Ideus said.

Another service the placement center provides students and alumni is three weekly employment vacancies bulletins. The bulletins are published every Wednesday. They are available at request to any graduate, student or former student, Ideus said.

To receive the bulletins, send a self-stamped envelope for every set of bulletins to the Placement Center, Woody Hall, SIU, Carbondale, Ill. 62901.

The third CPC division is the testing unit headed by Harley Bradshaw.

The unit administers national tests such as the GRE, CLEP, GED or MCAT. The unit also administers proficiency exams developed by academic departments and the administration of individual placement tests referred by academic counselors. In addition, the testing unit administers tests for professional licenses.

During 1975-76 a total of 18,462 tests were administered to a total of 5,704 persons, Bradshaw said. This unit also scored 1,736 exams for the GEDs for the Illinois Department of Corrections. The testing unit also helped students receive 5,771 hours of college credit through proficiency examinations during 1975-76.

The final division of the CPPC is the cooperative education unit, headed by Minnie Minnito.

This unit stresses work experience. It helps students gain experience in their professional or vocational area before graduation.

The staff contacts companies and alumni to see if there are any summer jobs, internships or practicums available to SIU students.

The cooperative education unit co-sponsored the Fall Career Conference, Government Career Day and Educational Career Days on the SIU campus where over 80 different organizations were represented.

The concept of this unit is "recruiting-in-reverse" Ideus said. "We get companies to come to explain the different opportunities they offer. The student gains contacts with recruiters and the recruiters are exposed to the University, he said.

Other programs offered by the CPPC include assertive training seminars, an invaluable occupational resource library, "Fishing, Slavery and Parachutes", a workshop for the creative job-seeker, and seminars for the physically handicapped and minorities.

"We have something for everyone," Ideus said. If a person wants a job, we can help. If they want some counseling, we're here. If they want some experience, we'll sure try to aid them."

You don't have to convince Miss Cochran about the advantages of the CPPC — not any more because it's a month before graduation and she has two good job offers.

CPPC Director Harvey Ideus explains the placement and counseling resources available for job searching in the center's library.

Good News: Job Outlook Is Bright

The employment outlook for this year's graduates looks bright, Harvey Ideus, director of the Career Planning and Placement Center (CPPC), said.

"So far the outlook looks very positive, but the severe winter and the change in the national administration (the election of a new president) has made the scene very much up and down — it has taken the bright lights off of the job picture," he said. "Even so, I predict that there will be more jobs available for graduates this year than last."

Because of the bad weather this winter many job recruiters canceled appointments, Ideus said. Some of those are companies that normally come to campus two or three times a year. This year they may only recruit once.

This year's Endicott Report reported that 29 per cent of the companies responding said they would contact more colleges in 1977 and 72 per cent said their needs for bachelor's degree employees had increased.

The Endicott Report, which is prepared by a retired head of the Northwestern University Placement Center, surveys businesses about their upcoming needs for bachelor degree graduates.

In 1976, 136 companies came to SIU to recruit. Ideus said this was about 295 recruiters. A recruiter usually sees about 14 students per interviewing day. Out of every 10 students interviewed, CPPC estimates that about 1.5 students will be hired and between 2 and 2.5 students will have an interview at the job location.

Ideus said the more interviews a student has, the more confident he will be in an interview.

Then, the student will understand the skills he has to offer a prospective employer. An added bonus is that the student learns to spell out his specific wants and needs to an employer.

"We feel we have to put as much effort into teaching the student job search tactics as we do getting recruiters to campus," Ideus said.

Ideus said in preparing for an interview it has been proven that males dressed in suits and females dressed in a dress or a skirt and blouse have a strong positive effect on interviewers.

The biggest recruiter complaint is that students can not talk about their life objectives or career goals, Ideus said.

Another problem for SIU is getting recruiters to come to campus to interview students. Ideus said the location of SIU hinders some recruiters because of travel expenses.

A lot of the recruiters ask the CPPC why should they travel to Carbondale when they can stay in Chicago and recruit students from a large number of colleges in the area, Ideus said.

"So to overcome this slight disadvantage, we teach students how to approach the companies in areas they are interested in working," he said.

A student who is about to graduate should register at the CPPC three to four months prior to graduation.

SIU alumni also should be encouraged to update the placement papers.

"Then when a new position comes into the center, we can match qualified graduates with the job," Ideus said.

Areas where employment opportunities appear to be encouraging are: engineering and technology, accounting and mining. Ideus said there is some demand for teachers in math, physical and natural science, distributive education, industrial arts, agriculture and special education.

Mildred Collett (r), a placement consultant, helps a student look through background information preparing for an interview.

Margie Kemp searches through the SIU resume file to match a vita with a job opening with one of the CPPC recruiting companies.

Spotlighting Saluki Sports

Men Gymnasts Earn NCAA Spot

Coach Bill Meade's gymnasts battled injuries and one of the toughest schedules ever drawn to finish 7-5 in duals, but still qualified as a team to the NCAA championships at Tempe, Ariz., March 31-April 2. The Salukis earned their 16th NCAA berth in the last 18 years with a 418.05 score and a first-place finish in the Western Regional championships at Houston, Tex., March 18-19. Like the swimmers, the Saluki gymnasts were also very young, listing only three seniors on the 17-man roster. Of those seniors, though, pommel horse specialist Tony Hanson finished seventh in the NCAA last year, and averaged a solid 9.28 with a season high of 9.55 to rank as a top contender for the national championship in that event. "I was very pleased with the way this season has gone," Meade said before the NCAA's. "We missed some key people with injuries, but we still managed to qualify for the national meet. If we can hit our routines, I think we can finish as high as fifth this year. Next year, if we can keep everybody healthy, we could go even higher." Besides Hanson, four other Salukis qualified for the NCAA's as individuals — meaning they are eligible for individual medals at Tempe. Juniors Kim Wall and Steve Davis both qualified on the horizontal bar, while Kevin Muenz qualified on the parallel bars and Dave Schieble joins Hanson in the pommel horse competition.

Swimmers Break SIU Records

The Saluki swimmers, competing for the last time in Pulliam Pool before moving to the new Co-Recreation Building next year, had their best season ever, compiling a 7-3 dual record with the losses coming against three national powerhouses — Southern Methodist, Wisconsin, and Indiana. The Salukis, coached by Bob Steele, broke nearly every SIU record and qualified a record 10 individuals in 15 events and three relay teams for the NCAA championships at Cleveland, Ohio, March 24-26. Of those 15 entries, 12 were underclassmen and 11 were freshmen and sophomores. "We're probably still a little too young to finish high this year, but with a little luck and a lot of hard work, there's a definite possibility that we can move up in the next couple of years," Steele says. The lone seniors among the qualifiers are Mike Salerno (100- and 200-yard backstroke) and Dave Swenson (1,650 freestyle). The underclassmen are Steve Jack (100 breaststroke), Bryan Gadeken (500 and 1,650 freestyle) and Greg Porter (400 individual medley, 100 and 200 butterfly), Pat Looby (50 freestyle), Bob Samples (50 freestyle), Dean Ehrenheim (100 and 200 backstroke), Jorge Jaramillo (200 butterfly), and Gary Mastey (three-meter diving). The relay teams qualifying were the 400 freestyle, 400 medley, and 800 freestyle.

Indoor Track Wins Valley

SIU's indoor track team romped to its second-straight Valley title, easily outpointing runnerup West Texas State, 98-44, at Columbia, Mo., Feb. 27-28. In the conference's best indoor meet yet (records were broken in nine of 16 events), Coach Lew Hartzog's thinclads won six championships. Winners were: Gary Hunter, pole vault; Scott Dorsey, 600; Earl Bigelow, 440; Mike Bisase, 880; Andy Roberts in the 60-yard intermediate hurdles and the mile relay team of Steve Lively, Bisase, Dorsey, and Bigelow. The Salukis got off to a fast start on the meet's first night when Hunter's 17-1 vault, tied his own school record, set a meet record, and led an SIU sweep of the first four places in that event. All four Saluki vaulters — the others were Tim Johnson (16-6) and Clay DeMattei and Mark Conard (both 16-0) cleared 16 feet. Track and Field News, said SIU was probably the first school to have four vaulters clear 16 feet in the one meet. Two weeks later six individuals and the mile relay team participated in the NCAA indoor meet at Detroit, Mich., (the largest SIU contingent ever), and came home with third-place finishes from Hunter (17-1 for the fourth time in the indoor season) and long jumper Rick Rock (25-1¾). During the indoor season, three school records were set. In addition to Hunter's in the pole vault, Roberts ran a 6.9-second time in the 60-yard intermediates, and Rock turned in a 25-3½ long jump. High jumper Ed Kijewski jumped 6-10 to tie the SIU freshman record. The Salukis had gone outdoors for one meet at this writing and won a five-team meet at Northeast Louisiana by more than 100 points. Highlighting the Saluki romp was Bob Roggy, who threw the javelin 267-5 to break his own school record by more than 11 feet and easily clear last year's Olympic qualifying standard of 260 feet.

Itchy Needs Six Baseball Wins

The Saluki baseball team got off to a good start winning their first four games, and were 6-2 after a 7-5 win over Massachusetts at Miami, Fla., on March 22. The Saluki nine was scheduled to play four more games in Florida before returning to Carbondale for the home opener against Greenville at Abe Martin Field on March 30. After the first eight games, Coach Richard "Itchy" Jones, with a 272-72-3 career record, needed only six more wins to become SIU's all-time winningest baseball coach. The Saluki's home field namesake, Abe Martin, compiled a 277-154-2 record from 1947 to 1965. With seven of the top nine hitters back from last year's 39-14-1 team that finished second only to Buffalo in NCAA team hitting and set a school record with a .355 Team mark, the Salukis appear capable of making another strong run at the College World Series. In addition to the returning firepower, a more-experienced defense and a nearly-intact pitching staff returns. "We lost some key people from last year's team and we have some question marks in a few places, but if the returning players can continue to improve and show consistency, and some of the new players can perform the way we think they can, I think we can play with anyone in this part of the country," Jones says. "You start every season hoping to make it to the College World Series, but to do that, you have to make it to a regional tournament first..."

Wrestlers Have Tough Season

The Saluki wrestlers fought even more injuries than the gymnasts this past season, but couldn't overcome them in finishing 4-18 against a very tough dual schedule that included six of the nation's top 10 teams. Clyde Ruffin, who was being counted on to lead the SIU grapplers in 1976-77, missed a good portion of the year with a back injury. He still came back to win the 150-pound weight class at the NCAA Central qualifying tournament to earn SIU's only spot in the national championships at Norman, Okla., March 17-19. At the NCAA's, Ruffin defeated Kevin Griffith of Massachusetts, 15-4, in the first round, but dropped a second-round decision to fifth-seeded Bruce Kineth of Iowa, 14-4. When Kineth lost in the quarterfinals, Ruffin was out of the tournament and finished the year with a 16-5-2 record.

Spring Football Practice Starts

Spring football got underway at McAndrew Stadium Monday, March 28, as a second-year head coach Rey Dempsey and his staff greeted some 75 aspirants, including 21 lettermen from last year's 7-4 team. Dempsey's main goals this spring are to try to rebuild offensive and defensive lines that were badly depleted by graduation. The Salukis will work out four times a week for five weeks, culminated at 1:30 p.m. April 30 by the annual Spring Game at McAndrew Stadium.

Sayers Named to Hall of Fame

SIU men's athletic director Gale Sayers will be the youngest man ever inducted into Pro Football Hall of Fame July 30 at ceremonies in Canton, Oh.

Sayers earned a second honor when the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame in New York, N.Y., selected him to be one of its 1977 inductees at ceremonies in New York Dec. 14.

He was nominated to Pro Hall of Fame for a brief, but brilliant career with the Chicago Bears.

In seven years in the NFL, he rushed for 4,956 yards, caught 112 passes for 1,307 yards, averaged 30.6 yards on kickoff returns and 14.0 on punts, scored 55 touchdowns himself, and passed for one more.

As a rookie, he set an NFL record with 22 touchdowns (broken two years ago by O.J. Simpson) and tied Ernie Nevers' ancient mark of six TDs in one game. Those were the first of eight league records broken or tied by "Magic."

Those accomplishments came after an outstanding career at the University of Kansas from 1962 to 1964 — a career that earned him his second Hall of Fame award.

Playing for the Jayhawks, the "Kansas Comet" rushed for a career total of 2,675 yards and scored 20 touchdowns in earning all-America honors as a junior and senior.

Sayers became SIU's AD last July 15, succeeding Doug Weaver.

Golf Team Plays Nine Tourneys

Coach Jim Barrett completes his first year as SIU golf coach this spring, after succeeding Lynn Holder last fall. He guided the Salukis to a second-place finish in the Mid-American Classic and third place in the SIU-Edwardsville Invitational last fall. SIU is scheduled to play in eight tournaments this spring, culminating with the Missouri Valley Conference championships at Wichita, Kan., May 16-18. Jim Brown carried a 73.8 average last fall and is capable of lowering that average to 72 this spring. If Brown can accomplish that and the rest of a young squad (the only other senior is Jay Venable) can improve as much as Barrett feels they can, the Salukis could win their first Valley title.

Women's Gymnastic Team Wins AIAW Regional

The SIU women's gymnastic team won the Region Five team championship at the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) regional held March 4-5 at Carbondale.

The SIU team, which has never lost a regional championship, tallied 142.75 points. Indiana State came in second at 140.35 followed by Michigan State with 140.20 and Kent State at 138.40.

The SIU victory advanced the Saluki women to the AIAW championships April 1-2 at Central Michigan University. In the last 13 years, the Saluki women gymnasts have won 10 national titles in the AIAW, USGF or the AAU national championships.

In the all-around competition, SIU's Linda Nelson of Louisville, Ky., placed second; Laura Hemberger of New York City placed third and Dianne Grayson of Gross Point, Mich., placed eighth.

SIU's Cindy Moran of Beverly, Mass., captured the uneven parallel bars title while Hemberger took second. In vaulting, Kim Paul of Long Beach, Calif., tied for fifth and Hemberger took seventh. On the beam, Grayson took fifth place, Nelson finished sixth and Hemberger eighth. In the free exercise, Grayson finished second, Nelson fourth, Paul seventh and Hemberger, ninth.

The swimming team ended a 4-1 dual competition season with a second place finish at the state meet held in early March at the University of Illinois. In addition, SIU sent five swimmers to the National meet March 17-19 at Brown University, Providence, R.I.

The basketball team ended its season with a 15-8 record losing its first round game 78-59, to Ohio State University. The AIAW regional tourney was held March 10-12 at Purdue University.

Southern was lead by forward Jeri Hoffmann of Hammond, Ind., who ended the season with a 14.5 average and Bonnie Foley, center from Stratford, Conn., with an 11.1 average.

The badminton team finished its season placing fourth in the Illinois state tournament held at Eastern Illinois University. Diane Sandlin represented SIU at the AIAW tournament March 3-5, advancing two rounds before being eliminated.

Salukis Play in NCAA Regional

The four-year starter scored 112 points, a 28-point average, while hitting 52 of 77 from the field for a sizzling 68 percent — nearly all from the 15-to-25 foot range.

Glenn ended his career as SIU's No. 2 all-time scorer with 1,878 points — 210 behind Charlie "Chico" Vaughn's 2,088. In addition, his 30 points against Wake Forest brought his season total to 609 (21.0 ppg), making him only the third Saluki to score 600 in a season.

Fellow senior Corky Abrams scored eight points against Wake Forest and moved past Joe Ramsey into 11th place on the all-time scoring list with 1,035. In addition, the 6-7 Atlanta native hit an even 60 percent from the field in his career — a truly remarkable achievement.

Seven of this year's top nine scorers and rebounders return, led by juniors-to-be Wilson (12.9 ppg) and Richard Ford (10.9 ppg), a pair of forwards who grabbed 417 rebounds between them this year. The other returning starter is freshman guard Wayne Abrams, who led the team in assists with 117. The other top returnees who will face a Valley schedule beefed up by the addition of Creighton and Indiana State next year are guards Milt Huggins and Al Williams and frontliners Al Grant and Barry Smith. There will be no seniors on the 1977-78 Salukis.
